

SPACE CORVUS

A SCI-FI TEXT ADVENTURE GAME BY AGNEL BLAISE

MISSION BRIEFING

We have received a distress signal from the SASS NewDawn. A robot militia has attacked the space station and is trying to take control of the station. There have been multiple human casualties.

Your task is to infiltrate the space station, get in contact with the crew, help them repair damages to the system and regain control of the navigation systems. Neutralise the situation and report back.

ENEMIES

We have so far indentified four different types of autonomous robots inside the space station.

Androids : Biped humanoid robots implanted with skin tissues easily identifiable by their queer smile in an attempt to socialize with human beings. They will attack only as last resort. Used for maintenance.

Ingenoids : Engineering half-humanoid robots that are more dangerous than androids as they have power tools equiped in them. Used in engineering and controlling ship consoles.

Dreadbots : Hulk-like humanoids equiped with enough firepower to wreck havok. Their brute-force can only be countered by hacking into their chips and re-programming them. Never try to face them head-on.

Mortroids : Mortroids are humanoid swarm robots. They are stealthier cousins of Dreadbot that can resist being hacked up to an extent..

Do not attack Dreadbots and Mortroids without enough tech under your sleeves. Hacking them first is a better idea than confronting with a gun.

Trying to attack someone will make all robots in the room hostile.

PICKUPS

Weapons : You have a standard issue Corvus Pulse-Rifle. You will find more weapons in the stashes or from the crew.

Stashes : Containes electronic equipments, health pickups and weapons

Points Of Interest : Your objectives are marked as POIs in map

Use the map to plan ahead. Keep an eye on your inventory and decide what to use in which room.
